Trip Report

Rosseau Ridge, Arrowsmith Traverse Turned Into Snowbowl (hiking)

return to Reports list

Sun Dec 13, 2015

 Leader: Ron Lepine

Co-Leader:

From Ten we were down to four hardy eager participants. I picked up Thomas, Shawna & Jim at the Hump and we were off. We tried to go to Minna's Ridge but the snow/slush on the road was too much. We turned around and found we could comfortably drive up the beginning of the cut block to hike the Snowbowl trail. We started from the truck at 9 AM and got to the snowbowl in over one meter of snow at noon. It didn't rain at all and only a light sprinkle of barely noticeable snow in the snowbowl. We got up to the small pond & turned around @ 1 O'clockish. Very foggy in there. By the time we got to the top of the cutblock almost to the truck(new access south of the gully with gate open) it was almost clear with some views to Big Interior Mtn/Nine Peaks. There was some very strange looking worms on the snow on the logging road we had hiked up on through the cut block. Many thanks to Thomas who broke trail through the ever deepening snow on the way up. Thanks for the company to Jim and Shawna too.
