Trip Report

San Josef Bay, Cape Scott (hiking)
return to Reports list

Sat May 21 to Mon May 23, 2011

 Leader: Chris Carter

Co-Leader:

In spite of a mediocre weather forecast, seven of us drove up to San Josef Bay to enjoy the May Day weekend. Enjoy we did. The weather co-operated after a sea mist on the first evening, the weather steadily improved throughout the weekend. A daytime low tide made beach combing and exploring easy. We shared a good campsite with mice that took every opportunity to eat our food. The Mt.St.Patric hike (reported on separately) was one highlight, watching wolves hunting and finally killing a deer for their supper was another. Altogether a memorable weekend. Tim and Chris took so many photos their camera batteries were exhausted. Susan showed us how to enjoy smoked mussels. Glen and Angela visited Ronnings garden.
